Step inside and you are welcomed into a lovely entrance hall where the original style tiled flooring remains intact, setting a charming tone from the very first moment. To the front, a stunning bay window floods the reception room with natural light, creating a warm and inviting space to unwind with a book on a quiet evening or settle in for a cosy night in. Beyond it, the family room leads directly into the kitchen, making this the natural heart of the home where everyone ends up, whether it's homework at one end or dinner preparations at the other. Beautifully fitted with stone worktops, the kitchen is as stylish as it is practical, and it opens through to a cosy dining room at the end, a later extension to the original house. It's the perfect setting for Sunday lunches, celebrations with friends and family, or simply lingering over a long breakfast.

Upstairs on the first floor are two double bedrooms, including a generous primary bedroom with two front-facing windows that bring in plenty of light and make it a peaceful retreat at the end of the day. The modern four-piece bathroom suite completes this floor, with a standalone bath that invites you to switch off. Higher still, the attic has been thoughtfully extended to create a further double bedroom, ideal for guests, teenagers or a home office, and complemented by plenty of additional storage to keep everything neatly out of sight.

Outside, the garden has been designed with practicality in mind, with a mixture of slate and gravel creating a low-maintenance space that is ready to be enjoyed, whether for summer evenings with a drink in hand or space for pots and outdoor seating. It is also a great size for any new owner who might wish to lay a lawn and make it their own, offering room for children to play or pets to roam. A separate garage and ample parking complete the exterior, making coming and going effortless.
